It's Oscars time

Hollywood royalty gathers again for the 96th Academy Awards

By Jay Bobbin
TV Media

The calendar has been shaken up this entertainment award season, but the movie industry's top ceremony is remaining pretty much on time ... while starting an hour earlier than usual.

The 96th Academy Awards will celebrate the best in the film as ABC televises the event Sunday, March 10, from Hollywood's Dolby Theatre. The network's late-night star, Jimmy Kimmel, will be back for his fourth turn as Oscars host. His wife, Molly McNearney, has her second consecutive year as an executive producer of the event, a job she also performs, along with co-head writer, on her spouse's "Jimmy Kimmel Live!" weeknight program.

Viewers can expect Kimmel to make reference to last year's strikes that upended show business, with the work stoppages by writers and actors delaying — or, in some cases, canceling — the production of movies and altering release schedules. Some of this year's Academy Award-nominated films had less promotion than they might have received otherwise, since their stars couldn't promote those pictures as part of the union agreement during the actors' strike.

However, a big turnout by Hollywood can be expected now, with the Oscars red carpet arrivals of many personalities again being the draw for worldwide interest and attention that they typically are. There's also potential for the unexpected, as recent Oscars shows have confirmed, whether that amounts to surprise winners or unanticipated comments or actions by those who take the stage.

"Oppenheimer" leads the current group of nominated films with 13 bids, followed by "Poor Things" with 11, "Killers of the Flower Moon" with 10, "Barbie" with eight — and controversy over its lack of nominations for Margot Robbie as best actress and Greta Gerwig as best director — and "Maestro" with seven.

Martin Scorsese now has the most nominations for best director overall with 10, composer John Williams is the second-most-nominated person ever — now with 54 to his credit overall, placing him behind only Walt Disney — and Lily Gladstone is the first Native American nominee for best actress. Also, the best picture contest includes two foreign-language films for the first time, with "Anatomy of a Fall" and "The Zone of Interest."

Following are the nominees in many of the categories for the 96th Academy Awards:

Best picture: "American Fiction"; "Anatomy of a Fall"; "Barbie"; "The Holdovers"; "Killers of the Flower Moon"; "Maestro"; "Oppenheimer"; "Past Lives"; "Poor Things"; and "The Zone of Interest"

Moon"; Robert Downey Jr., "Oppenheimer"; Ryan Gosling, "Barbie"; and Mark Ruffalo, "Poor Things"

Best actress in a supporting role: Emily Blunt, "Oppenheimer"; Danielle Brooks, "The Color Purple"; America Ferrera, "Barbie"; Jodie Foster, "Nyad"; and Da'Vine Joy Randolph, "The Holdovers"

Best director: Jonathan Glazer, "The Zone of Interest"; Yorgos Lanthimos, "Poor Things"; Christopher Nolan, "Oppenheimer"; Martin Scorsese, "Killers of the Flower Moon"; and Justine Triet, "Anatomy of a Fall"

Blossom, bloom and bake: Florals are on the menu for 'Spring Baking Championship'

By Caroline Collacutt
 TV Media

Bees are buzzing and the birds are chirping, and that can only mean one thing. Jesse Palmer ("The Bachelor") and his buddies, judges Duff Goldman ("Duff Takes The Cake"), Kardea Brown ("Delicious Miss Brown") and Nancy Fuller ("Farmhouse Rules"), are back for another year of the "Spring Baking Championship," continuing with an all-new episode Monday, March 11, on Food Network.

"Vibrant colors, fresh fruits and bright flavors are on display as 12 of the best bakers in the country compete in challenges for the title of Spring Baking Champion and the $25,000 prize," the season's logline describes. "To survive week to week, the bakers must prove their abilities in front of expert judges Kardea Brown, Nancy Fuller and Duff Goldman. The array of spring-time treats in this one-hour series is the sweetest way to kick off spring."

During the season's premiere, Palmer welcomed the competing bakers, introducing them to the championship kitchen before diving into the season's first, tropics-inspired task.

"After grabbing an ingredient and flower that's familiar to spring breakers," an episode description reads, "the competitors have two hours to incorporate them into a baked dessert." Afterwards, the bakers then conjured thoughts of relaxing vacations and sunny skies, with cakes that showcased their own favorite spring experiences.

This week, however, the group embraces the change of season with an episode celebrating the upcoming spring equinox. Palmer and the judges sit back and relax, basking in the heat radiating from the kitchen as the bakers wrangle one of this year's trendiest ingredients — ube — and do their best to replicate the blossoming beauty of nature through flower-covered dome cakes filled with floral flavors, presenting desserts fit for mother nature herself.

With episodes airing weekly, there's always more to come, and the upcoming episodes are jam-packed with more seasonally appropriate fun. From shining a spotlight on awards season with "and the winner is ..." envelope-shaped pies and bubble cakes inspired by fizzy afterparty cocktails, to celebrating Earth Day with creepy-crawly cakes and ice cream-filled baked Alaska and honoring the Indian Festival of Holi with bright and colorful, spice-filled doughnuts, Palmer guides his bakers — and us — through a season of transformation, rebirth and change, with only the most delicious treats to nibble at along the way.

Plant your annuals, then plant yourself on the couch: "Spring Baking Championship" continues with all-new episodes, airing Mondays on Food Network.
