Maximus Castillo, left, and Nicholas Fiorito, Jim Thorpe High School Class of 2025. JAMES LOGUE JR./SPECIAL TO THE TIMES NEWS

Reflection

As the Class of 2025 prepares to graduate from Jim Thorpe Area High School, it is easy to focus on the big moments. Spirit weeks, final exams, the school volleyball tournament, and that one rafting trip where half the class ended up soaked. But if we are being honest, those were not the moments that shaped us.

What really defined our class were the traditions. The moments that felt like nothing at the time but ended up meaning everything. Like field day in elementary school, when winning the fireman relay felt like gold. Or the silly elementary school rivalries that lasted way longer than they should have. Or the untraditional “two-week” break in seventh grade that turned into months at home.

We remember the chaos, too. The assembly when a stranger told us to hug the person next to us and we all just sat there awkwardly. Sophomore year, when some biology classes felt more like survival than school. The pop quizzes that somehow managed to be harder than the Keystones.

But through all of it, we showed up for ourselves and each other. Not because we were the loudest or most decorated, but because we were consistent. Quietly consistent. In the ways that did not always stand out but always mattered, our class was not flashy, but we were real. We were tired, sometimes a little chaotic, but dependable. We did not get here because of one huge moment. We got here by showing up day after day. That is what built this class. That is what made it strong.

Additionally, people showed up for us and simply led by example. There were teachers who never had to raise their voice to earn our respect. They showed us that kindness matters more than attention. That consistency beats being fake. That being there for your classmates, for your school and for your community matters more than any headline.

And now, it is only right to acknowledge the person who has been quietly showing up for Jim Thorpe since 2004.

Our principal, Mr. Lesisko, has led with consistency, pride and a deep love for this school. Is there anyone who cares more about Jim Thorpe than him? It is hard to imagine. His legacy is not just in the building we are leaving behind but in the people we have become because of it.

As we leave, I hope we do not forget who we are. I hope we keep doing the small things. Helping someone without being asked. Checking in on people. Showing up even when it is not easy. Because the moments that felt like nothing were actually everything.

And now, as we step out into what is next, we carry those lessons with us. We will wake up tomorrow without a class bell, a locker or a homeroom. Just who we are and what we have learned along the way.

Choosing your path

Dear Lehighton Class of 2025,
As we approach our final days of high school and our eventual parting, I want to leave you with a message that I believe applies to every member of our class. Since we walked through the doors of the high school in September of 2021, I have watched all of us discover our unique skills, passions and identities.

We have developed into individuals ready to live with a purpose and pursue the futures we imagine for ourselves.

By next fall, we will all be living a life very different from the one that we have grown to know.

Some of us will be productive members of the workforce. Some will serve our country or master trades. Others will go onto universities — near or far — to pursue academic degrees of their choosing.

Wherever your passions and careers may take you in the future, I encourage you to never allow the expectations of society to force you down a path not true to your dreams.

Think about the clubs many of us have been involved with throughout high school. Some clubs we joined because we had a genuine interest in being an active member and a desire to learn. Others we simply joined because our friends were already involved, or because it would look great on a resume. I think most of us would agree that when we participated in an activity we cared about, the tasks at hand were much more enjoyable, productive and rewarding than the clubs we were apathetic towards. I want you to take this example and apply it to your life after high school.

Choose the path that makes you excited to live another day. Choose the path that makes you proud when you share your story. Choose the path that feels like you were born to follow.

When you find your way and settle in, do not allow others to change you. There will always be people speaking poorly of you, unpredictable twists and turns, and an ever changing world around us, but do not allow external pressures to stop you from doing what you love.

We all have a dream, whether it be well known or held within, and thanks to our various experiences with the Lehighton Area School District, we all have the potential to become the true people we aspire to be.

Growth is gradual

As we move on to our next phase of life, always remember that growth is gradual. We won't wake up tomorrow with our dream jobs, homes and cars. Our next journey will be filled with monumental moments that shape us and foster self-growth.

Many of these moments may seem small in the moment, but once we move far past them, we will realize how far we have truly come. Every goal takes time to accomplish. Patience and persistence are key in achieving all of our dreams.

Never take for granted the moments of hard work, defeat and success that bring us to our ideal selves. Those are the moments that make us who we are.

For the rest of our lives, memorable moments will be fleeting. We are closing this chapter of our lives, and many of us will soon embark on our next.

Before we know it, that chapter will come to a close in a graduation ceremony much like the one we are having this year. In the blink of an eye, we will hold our first major jobs, own homes and build families. So, as we go on to tend to patients, defend the innocent, protect our country, kiss our spouses, and read our babies bedtime stories, hold tightly to the small moments that have shaped our lives and brought us to the present moment.

Never be afraid of what's to come. After all, it is just the next step in the story of our lives.

So many amazing accomplishments

To my classmates,

Whether we like it or not, our high school experience is quickly coming to an end. It wasn't always easy, but we worked hard, we struggled, and we overcame. We did it.

During our years at Tamaqua High, our class has had so many amazing accomplishments. From district championships to state qualifications, our class has excelled athletically, academically and artistically. We've represented our hometown well, and we have so much to be proud of.

A successful and fulfilling life cannot not be built on accomplishments alone, however, and I believe the most valuable part of our schooling has been the people we spent it with.

From your first grade best friend, to your sixth grade lunch table, to the person you walk beside during our graduation ceremony, so many people in this class have contributed to your success. So many of your classmates have made a lasting impact on your life that will never fade, even as your medals lose their luster.

As you receive your diploma to the deafening applause of your friends and family (or even while you daydream during one of the speeches), I hope you take a moment to look around and recognize all the incredible people who have helped you get to where you are today.

Remember, the greatest achievement isn't reaching the top, but making sure others rise with you. High school wasn't always easy, but we did it, together.

I wish you all the best of luck. It's been an honor to serve as your president. Go Raiders!

New beginnings

To my lovely peers, the Weatherly Class of 2025,

Here we are, the final stretch, the last semester, the end of our time together. Some of us have known each other since Mrs. Stewart's pre-K class, and some of us have met quite recently. In either case, we've all grown together, and we are all Wreckers together.

For most of us, this town is all we've ever known. We've all become so comfortable here at this tiny school.

Outsiders might say that they would never want to go to a small school like Weatherly. Seems boring, right? A small school without a football team ... "Where's Weatherly?" Well, let me say, I would not change a thing about where I went to school. The opportunities at Weatherly High are endless. Having these small classes has allowed all of us to have one-on-one learning experiences with our teachers.

At huge schools, class sizes are so big that the teachers barely know the students by name. We've also been encouraged to join multiple clubs and sports. So many of us have been involved in more than one club and sport, which has empowered us not only to impact the school and community, but to build lifelong friendships with our fellow club members and teammates.

At this school, we are a family. We've been able to get to know each other, our teammates and our teachers because of this unique environment.

While I know we will all miss the WHS experience, there is so much for us to see, do and learn in the world. In the upcoming months, our lives are going to be completely different.

We are going to meet new people, have new classes and instructors, and make new friends. Whether you are going to college, the workforce, the military or another path, I know you will excel.

New beginnings are scary, and while being surrounded by the same people has been comforting, all good things must come to an end.

Don't get lost in where life takes you. I encourage you not to forget about Weatherly. In the back of your mind, just remember that this place will always be here. Weatherly has been such a great place to mature, and it is comforting to know that this is where it all began. Our childhood shall be frozen in time on these streets, and it is important to remember where we came from.

I cannot wait to see what the future holds for every single one of you, and I wish you all great success.
